

The Opener That Wasn't

Weekend Proves No Different Than Any Other to Boat Camp Owners

HEBER CITY—(May 27)—The lack of a general opening day for fishing season this year drew mixed reviews from boat camps operators and fishermen.

Colleen Snow, of Snow's Marina, said that the weekend's activity was really no different than other years. "The place is filled up and the fishing has been great. As a matter of fact people who don't generally catch many fish have done well."

It was a slightly different story up the road at Beck's Island Boat Camp. Employees there noted that, while their campground was full, there hasn't been the activity they have seen other years when fishermen have lined up at the gate waiting to get in.

What was apparent though was the fact that people like to get outdoors when they have the time. Regardless of the reason, campgrounds around the reservoir were full and more than the usual amount of anglers lined the banks.

Karen Pitts, Head Drill Mother of the Wasatch High Waspettes, receives a token "Big Bird" for her year's efforts in preparing the costumes for the Waspettes.

Kara Lynne Farr, Drillteam Advisor, displays the memory book presented to her by the Waspettes, Drillteam. The book contained pictures of each for her year's service to the Wasatch High Drillteam member.

Drill Team Annual Banquet Held

Karen Pitts was recognized for her contributions during the past year as head drill team mother. She was in charge of coordinating and fabricating costumes for the Waspettes.

The Wasatch High School Drill Team conducted their annual banquet on Wednesday, May 22, at the Wasatch High cafeteria. Members of the drill team were honored for their activities during the past year. Special recognition was given to the senior girls that would be graduating this year. Plaques were awarded to each girl which outlined the years activities and special events that the drill team has participated in.

Kara Lynne Farr was honored for her devotion and service to the drill team as the advisor for the past several years. Her devotion and guidance for the Waspettes has made them nationally recognized drill team competitors who have competed in both national and international competition.
